

1st world in 3D

2014

„I don't understand why half of the world is crying, when the other half of the world is still crying too“ (Janis Joplin)

what to do
when the burnout is over and you realize how hopelessly privileged you are.
against redistribution
and pro abundance!
glitter and glam // but for all.
since beauty lays in the heart of the consumerism // weary first without, then compassion first yourself , then the others learning to look up & away long absent, soon forgotten
'cause money doesn't bring happiness but wealth // measured // in things dropping burden unnecessary (far away)
to make space again
for future junk
more things, more doing, more stuff to fill the inner void.
intellectual work of art // helping the ones that would be happier with more.
writing about it.
complaining.
about slow internet
missing the bus
soy not latte
one world and many classes

peace and love

xx